DANIEL RHODES.
Daniel Rhodes, 67 years old, died this morning at 11 o'clock at his home in McCormick avenue. His illness dates back to about two months ago when he suffered a slight stroke of paralysis. His condition improved and he was able to engage in light work. About three weeks ago he suffered an attack of heart trouble and had been confined to his bed two weeks previous to his death. He would rally at times and hopes were entertained for his recovery. He had a wide acquaintance in Connelville and vicinity, especially among the older residents, and was respected and esteemed by all who knew him. He was married to Miss Kate Murray, daughter of William Murray deceased and Mrs. Margaret Murray, who makes her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. McCormick of Poplar Grove. Besides his widow he is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Edward Nickel, and Mrs. Rockwell Critchfield, both of Connelville. Walter Lohman, Hotel B. P. O. E. No. 143rd St. and 6th Ave., widely known as sales manager for a large New York concern, says: "Since I can do a big day's work, sleep like a top night and get up mornings brimful of new life and energy. But, for two years it was altogether different. My appetite was so poor I often went all day with nothing more to eat than a roll and cup of coffee. I could hardly sleep at all and felt so tired in the morning that even the thoughts of having to drag through another day were unpleasant. "My condition was worrying me no little, but I have never been in better shape in my life. I am now taking Thelma. I thoroughly enjoy my three hearty meals a day and simply feel like a man made over." Thelma is sold by all good druggists. Over thirty-million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, hollow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headache, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit, 15c and 30c.

Unity Frat Wins League Game From Legion; Four Quintets Clash Tomorrow

Casays Will Meet B. & O.
Thursday Night; Frat and Firemen.

BRADDOCK HIGH COMING

The Unity Fraternity defeated the American Legion basketball team in a City League game at the Parochial School last night. The score was 10-22. The game was close but slow during the first half, the period ending 11-11.

In the second half the two outfits speeded up and spectators got a treat of some clever independent basketball. The Frat took the lead at the beginning of the third quarter and maintained it until the end of the game, gradually enlarging it.

John Brown was the principal scoring factor for the Legion, all 22 points being credited to him. He scored some pretty shots from the floor in his own way—the sensational kind—and was rather consistent at the foul line.

The crowd of spectators was rather small last night but a bigger attendance is looked for tomorrow evening. The Casey Club and the Baltimore & Ohio team will play. The Casey Club and the Unity Fraternity are now the only teams which have not suffered a defeat and the Casey rosters will be out to urge their team on to a victory over the railroaders. The Baltimore & Ohio team is a dangerous one and the only reason it has been on the tail end of its games is because it lacks the perfection of more practice together. This will come in the course of the next few games and then the outfit will be a contender for top honors.

In the league this year a defeat by one team does not mean a complete set-back for the loser as it did last season, mainly because each outfit meets the other three times. This arrangement will give every opportunity for creating considerable rivalry and each outfit will have the benefit of forming a new defense or offense for a certain team.

Two games will be played Thursday evening. The first is between the Casey Club and Baltimore & Ohio. It will begin at 7:45 o'clock sharp. The second, between the Unity Fraternity and Firemen, will follow immediately.

In the game last night the Legion offensive did not get into its stride as it did against the B. & O. last Thursday. Engleka had hard luck with his shots and Yaw likewise. The former soldiers have a good guard in Smith. He frequently broke up plays that might have resulted in Frat scores. DeBolt is the stationary forward.

The line-up:
Frat—30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

W.P.I.A. League Leaders to Mix Here on Friday

On Friday night the game which ranks next to the Scotland game in the eyes of the basketball fans in the city will be played at the High School gym. Braddock, leader in the W. P. I. A. League, Section 3, will be here. The team is as yet undefeated and has been hanging up some big victories. The locals feel they have a fine chance to overcome this fine record and are quite confident.

Braddock has frequently met its Waterloo on the local floor. A defeat of Braddock will likely put the locals in position to be in second place at the close of the season and tie with Braddock for the lead provided some other team is able to administer defeat to the team.

Last Friday, the record crowd of 1,000 was present and it was necessary to close the doors. While nothing like this is looked for day after tomorrow, it is believed a capacity house will throng the gymnasium.

Notes of the Floor Game.
Captain Lowmy of the High School team will be able to be back in uniform for the game Friday night.

Someone said, John Brown, who plays forward for the Legion team, started to play basketball when Noah was jumping center, but the young "fellow" still holds his own with the youngsters.

The Casey team which goes into action Thursday will probably include Buttermore, Sedson, Toomey, White and Henry. It will be a good game but the railroaders have played one more game than the Casey Club.

Cochran is doing his utmost to teach his boys to pivot, one of the most useful tricks in basketball. A quicker offensive on recovery, the ball is also being drilled into the squad.

The Unity Fraternity plays the Loring Club at Uniontown tonight. The game will be at 8 o'clock. The game will be at 8:00 o'clock in the Gellatin Gardens.

On Tuesday of next week the Casey Club and Legion teams will clash.

The Scotland soccer football team was all prepared to travel to Smithton last Saturday to give the Smithton team a fast game, but on account of weather conditions the game was cancelled.

Had Close Shave

"My wife and children thought I was dying when, after an attack of acute pains in my stomach, I became unconscious. It was right after our Sunday dinner. They say I looked like dead and guess I had a pretty close shave. I had been having more or less stomach trouble and bloating with gas for past two years and could get no permanent help. Talking with a friend about my ailment he advised me to try MARY'S WONDERFUL REMEDY. I have not had any gas or stomach trouble since taking it eighteen months ago. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the information which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. THE SOISSON.

"THE KINGDOM WITHIN," the leading attraction today at this theatre, is a powerful drama featuring Pauline Stark and Gaston Glass. The greatest picture of the "Mystery Man" is the consensus of opinion of those who have seen "The Kingdom Within." It has a heart-rending and a human interest that places it high in the category of great pictures. The story deals with a sturdy old blacksmith, who has been blind since birth, and a man among men. The child is born a cripple. However, he possesses a keen spiritual insight to offset his physical defect, which he exerts upon Emily Preston, the girl next door. The story is gripping and moves forward rapidly to a thrilling climax where the rights of the superstitious lumberjack, and finally recovers the use of his paralyzed arm. Gaston Glass plays the role of the cripple Ames. Pauline Stark is the girl in the case and Kretz, the superstitious lumberjack, is realistically and dramatically portrayed by Ernest Torrence. Other members of the cast are Russell Simpson, G. Walt Covington, William Cooley and Miss Marion Fedicha. There is a real treat in store for those who view this picture.

How a beautiful and charming girl, whose father was indirectly implicated in the affair, finally succeeds in vindicating the youth as well as her father, provides an entertainment that surpasses any other picture. Shirley Mason has offered the screen in the past. Joseph Franz and Arjuna, his mortal brother. The

WEDNESDAY EVE'G, JAN. 31, 1928.

MAKING LAW ENFORCEMENT EFFECTIVE.

The sentences being imposed by the court on persons found guilty of infractions of the Motor laws, are an encouragement to those citizens who have a very deep concern for success of the efforts that are being made to bring about a greater respect for and more ready obedience to the law. The increasing severity of the sentences also shows that it is the duty of the court to determine the guilt or innocence of persons brought to trial, the court will do its full part in applying the provisions of the penal code. Without conviction of offenders the court is powerless to act effectively in taking corrective or punitive measures. The primary as well as the greater responsibility therefore rests with the jurors who must have such a conscientious regard for their oaths, and high conception of their duties as the right arm of the court, that they will be understood in rendering verdicts in exact accordance with the facts adduced in the trial of cases.

But a step removed from the juror comes the officers who are charged with the apprehension and prosecution of violators of the law. Unless they are vigilant and active in searching out offenders and in the time and pains necessary to collect evidence which will establish the guilt of parties arrested, the duties of law enforcement become more or less of a farce and a constantly increasing expense to the community which in the ultimate analysis is paid by the taxpayers. But back of the officers, the jurors and the court is the great body of the people upon the attitude of whom the effectiveness of law enforcement very largely depends. Without a strong and wholesome public sentiment which is insistent, persistent and consistent in its demand for a removal of the obloquy which rests upon our county by reason of the open flaunt and defiant violation of the law, there will not be the necessary spur to activity on part of those upon whom the responsibility rests directly.

It is therefore, the people stand resolute in their determination to aid every law enforcement instrumentality, and without fear, favor or hope even of commendation, they constantly stir the officers to their duty, and bear in mind their own obligations when called to serve as jurors, they can safely depend upon the courts to translate the public temper and spirit into terms the meaning of which those adjudged guilty will have no difficulty in understanding.

The objections the British are raising to the rate of interest the United States is asking on the millions loaned to the government in the "light" issue, when it was in a tight fix during the World War, will convince the "wheat" traders that the island politicians of the Baldwin type are a "light wad" bunch.

Progressive Perry keeps right at the head of the column by being the first community of its size in the county to organize a live board of trade. But doing things first is the Perry habit.

State Senator Schwartz who proposes to grade road by the alphabet, has himself open to the suspicion that he has not gone beyond his ABC's in his knowledge of the properties and qualities of coal.

The names of persons called for sentence in court on Monday reminds us anew that there is indeed, "a foreign problem" in law enforcement.

Chancellor Baldwin's strictures on Congress have stirred some of its "wheat" and hog traders from the "west" with a desire to snatch the offending Chancellor. Undoubtedly, and some of them are performing that operation, verily at least.

MY GOALS.

A little braver when the skies are gray.
 A little stronger when the road seems long.
 A little more of patience through the day.
 And not so quick to magnify a wrong.
 A little kinder, both of thought and deed.
 A little gentler with the old and weak.
 Swifter to sense another's pressing need.
 And not so fast the hurtful phrase to speak.
 These are my goals—not fancied beyond my power.
 Not dreams of glory, beautiful but vain.
 Not the great heights where buds of genius flower.
 But simple splendors which I ought to gain.
 These I can do and be from day to day.
 Along the humble pathway where I plod.
 So that at least when I am called away
 I need not make apologies to God.

Who Said "Prunes"? Special This Week Only

Just received a large carload Fancy Del Monte 40/50 Prunes. These prunes were grown in the famous Santa Clara Valley of California, a section noted for its production of the very best prunes. This valley, being near the coast and entirely surrounded by mountain ranges, has a more uniform temperature than other sections, which is more favorable for growing and curing prunes than anywhere else.

These prunes were carefully selected at a stage when the sugar content was fully developed, were slowly sun-dried, being protected from dust during the process, and then packed.

Special Prices for This Week Only:

Del Monte 40/50 Prunes, lb. - - - 18c
 Del Monte 40/50 Prunes, 10 lbs. - $1.75
 Del Monte 40/50 Prunes, 25 lb. box $4.20

Prunes vary in size from 20/30s to 110/120s—the higher the number the smaller the prune. The more common sizes are 50/60s and 60/70s. Del Monte 40/50s must not be confused with the small, cheap prunes of inferior flavor so often advertised.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Watch Child's Feet. Watch your child to see that he doesn't stand on the outer edge of the foot. Very young children, if standing longer than usual, have a tendency to stand that way, putting a severe strain on the ligaments of the foot, a tissue slow to recover from injury. Such a position leads to flat-foot and broken arches. If a child starts to form this habit, he should be watched constantly. (Copyright, 1925, Associated Editors.)

Winter Commencement Penn State College

STATE COLLEGE, Jan. 31.—Seventy men and women were graduated from the Pennsylvania State College at the annual mid-year commencement in the college auditorium at 7:30 last evening. Among those to receive degrees were six women, three students from foreign countries, and a number of men whose graduation was delayed because of military service. Six advanced degrees will also be conferred at the exercises.

The exercises marked one of the largest mid-year commencements in the history of the Pennsylvania State College. President John H. Thomas conferred the degrees and made the address to the graduating class.

The schools of engineering and liberal arts claimed the bulk of the mid-year graduates, each having a total of 24. Agriculture came next with 18; arts, then, natural sciences, two, and the department of home economics, one. Eleven of the graduates completed the course in commerce and finance, with industrial engineering next in time with eight graduates.

Keystone Store Employees Guided by the Golden Rule

THE spirit of good will has always been prevalent among the employees of the Keystone Company. We believe this attitude of democracy and good cheer has been an important factor in helping to make the Keystone Stores a success.

You will see it reflected in our stores by the manager and clerks. They like their work and their Company.

The reflection of this state of mind in any employee, regardless of his business, cannot escape the public notice.

It is likewise reflected in his store, a clean, orderly cheerful place in which to buy the purest and most wholesome food-stuffs and groceries that we can obtain and sold at prices to bring you back again soon.

The officials, heads of departments, and field superintendents in the Keystone Company, are men risen from the ranks. Those in charge of districts once acted as managers behind the counters of Keystone Stores.

Knowing the business thoroughly, they are in much better position to really help and instruct than those who never went through the mill. In Keystone Stores, we try to make as many friends as we make sales.

The Purpose of Every Keystone Store

Keystone Grocery Stores are clean, cheerful, pleasant places in which to buy, supplying the finest nationally known standard groceries and food-stuffs at prices from 15% to 35% less than the old-fashioned independent grocer. This is done by buying in carload lots direct from the sources of supply, thus eliminating all middle profits. Buy everything at Keystone Stores and bank the difference.

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowling

"Bertrand" said Diana, rising unsteadily. "Did you know anything of this? Do you understand? She is not the parlor maid—she is my cousin. I cannot explain; you must say nothing about it. Neither will she let me go!"

"She caught her in his arms before she could escape," said Diana. "My angel! In the morning, our love scene all over again. I have your promise!"

"Yes!" she said, wildly. "Oh, let me go!"

Lady Diana fled from the room and scuttled upstairs like an agitated rabbit. The vicar, following, blew her an impassioned kiss as she passed out of sight. Returning to the hall, he tore off his armor in a delirium of joy, and replaced it on the stand.

CHAPTER XX

Two Pairs.

Lady Erythea beamed. It seems an impossible task to apply to that austere countenance. But it was so. When Georgina entered the drawing room at noon—after nearly twenty-four hours exile in her bedroom—she found her alleged aunt as near to beaming as her features permitted.

"I am glad you have recovered from your temporary indisposition, my dear Almee," she said amiably. "During your absence an event has occurred, both romantic and desirable. How seldom the two things go together!"

"Indeed! What is it?"

Your cousin Diana and Monsieur de Jussac are about to contract an alliance. They became engaged this morning."

"How perfectly delightful!" breathed Georgina, after a pause of dramatic astonishment. "I am sure you are pleased—Aunt?"

"Indeed I am. I have not concealed from you my desire that this very thing should come about. It is the more satisfactory, because only last night I quite despaired of it, and came to regard it as hopeless. But Monsieur de Jussac's suit had prospered amazingly; it appears that Diana, as I suspected, has for some time since been far from indifferent to him. I am delighted that I gave them the opportunity. Only two hours after breakfast the vicar, with his customary impetuosity, brought Diana to me and begged for my consent. I need not say that I gave it gladly."

Georgina escaped into the garden. It is possible that Almee was right when she said that all women are natural actresses in time of need. Georgina's assumption of astonishment at hearing Lady Erythea's news was wholly assumed, and not assumed madly. The announcement was, in fact, news at all to her.

Having an excellent sense of direction, Georgina soon discovered Mr. Alexander Lambie, walking on the sheltered paths of the old saw garden beyond the chapel-attic. He looked quite as relieved as Georgina. And his eyes lit up wonderfully when he saw her.

"Mr. Lambie," he exclaimed, "I am delighted to see you. And look! I have just heard the news!"

"Have I offended you?" he said almost wistfully. "I thought you gave me permission."

"Alexander," murmured Georgina, frowning very much, "I am not in the mood to be better," said Mr. Lambie, regarding her with grateful eyes. "Have you seen your cousin?"

"Yes," said Georgina pathetically. "Almee came into my room very early this morning; she told me the dreadful thing that had happened—that your sister had discovered her and was going to tell Lady Erythea—and then when I was nearly frantic with terror, Almee explained that it was all right, and Lady Diana wouldn't say a word about it. Oh, what a relief it was!"

"She told you that?" said Alexander, amazed. "How could she have known? It was not till an hour or two ago Diana informed me that De Jussac had just proposed to her, and she was so happy—she felt she could not get Almee into trouble!"

Georgina staggered in confusion. She had nearly made a perfect blunder—Almee had told no one but herself about the encounter, with the vicar.

"She must have felt confident, I suppose, of Diana's goodness of heart," faltered Georgina. "Are you pleased about the engagement? I do hope you are. I was afraid—"

Alexander paused.

"I am not displeased," he said. "De Jussac is a good fellow. I did not at all see that he is a very good fellow indeed. The loss of a good woman is just what he needs."

"I hope they will be very happy," said Georgina softly.

Alexander was looking at her with an expression that made her heart beat.

"Isn't it splendid," she said quickly, "that Almee won't be suddenly betrayed. She'll have a chance now. She—"

"Almee!" Mr. Lambie almost exploded. "It is nothing but Almee! It is you I am concerned about, Georgina—not Almee! It wrings my heart, the position you are placed in through her fault. You are your own. It cannot go on—it is bound to be known very soon now. And when that happens—"

"Yes," said Georgina, tearfully. "It will be dreadful. I shall have to face it. They won't defend me."

Alexander took her hands quickly in his.

"Give me the right!" he said. "Georgina caught her breath. She looked up at him. There was a wonderful tenderness in his eyes; his face was the face of a man inspired."

"Georgina, you have known me only a little while. But I love you. You are the only woman in the world for me. I love you. Do you think you could care for me—just a little?"

Georgina tried to free herself. "It is impossible!" she said, turning her face away.

"Why? Do you not care for me?"

"Oh—it is cruel!" gasped Georgina, brokenly. "I am not Almee. I am here under false pretenses. How can you?"

"You are the woman I love!"

"Oh, let me go!" she said wildly. "You are not yourself—you have no right to say this to me," sobbed Georgina. "You believe that a priest in ordination may not marry!"

"I never held any such belief! Of my order, there are some who hold the view. I am not with them. I am celibate, only because I have never loved till now. Look at me, Georgina!" he said almost sternly. "Do you believe that any human passion would cause me to do what was against my faith?"

Georgina looked at him through her tears.

"No," she whispered. "I know that you would not."

"Come to me, then, Georgina," he said, gently. "What good there is for us to do in the world, let us do it hand in hand. I will make the years wonderful for you. Just tell me that you care."

He took her masterfully in his arms. "I do love you!" sobbed Georgina. "I love you."

Alexander raised her face and kissed her.

"I never hoped to hear you say it," he said. She felt his heart beating strongly. "You love me!"

"I have loved you," said Georgina, her voice stifled in his coat, "from the first day I saw you."

There was a long pause.

"It is greater happiness than I dreamed of," said Alexander, humbly. "I have not deserved it."

Suddenly he released her and held her at arm's length.

"One thing neither of us shall endure. No subterfuge—no secrecy about this. It is too sacred. We shall make it known at once. It is you I am thinking of. Our betrothal must be announced," said Alexander decisively. "And then—"

Before there was any time for reflection, Fate was upon him in the shape of Lady Erythea, walking majestically along the path with her little Highland terrier at her heels. Alexander halted.

"Aunt!" he exclaimed. "Georgina—I—"

He stopped short.

"What on earth is the matter with you?" said Lady Erythea, raising her eyebrows.

For once Alexander was at a loss. He had turned very pale. Georgina came boldly to his rescue.

"Alexander," she said faintly, yet articulately, "has asked me to be his wife. And, with desperate confusion, she asked—may I?"

The car-trumpet clattered on the gravel. Lady Erythea gathered Georgina into a triumphant embrace.

"My dear child," she exclaimed, kissing Georgina warmly on both cheeks. "I am delighted! Lady Erythea released her and kissed Alexander. "You have made me very, very happy. The match is in every way ideal. Alexander, you will have just such a wife as I should have chosen for you—and I never thought you would have the sense to choose one at all. My dear Almee, your excellent father, I am sure, will be as pleased about this as I am."

Georgina felt her knees giving way.

He Kissed Her Again.

She stooped and recovered the car-trumpet.

"Would you mind not telling anybody for just a day or two?" she said desperately. "We have told you, but we—"

Lady Erythea smiled.

"Polish, romantic child!" she said.

patting Georgina's cheek. "Well, well—we shall see."

She turned and disappeared towards the house. The betrothed couple looked at each other. Alexander squared his big shoulders.

"What on earth will happen now?" said Georgina faintly.

Alexander's reply was practical. He lifted her suddenly off her feet and kissed her.

"I don't care what happens!" announced Alexander. And he kissed her again.

CHAPTER XXI

A New Partnership.

"It rains all the time in this country," said Billy, discontentedly, "except when you want it to."

He addressed the remark to the dry and unresponsive soil. Billy's attitude at the moment was unusual. He was close to the footpath along which he had wheeled the Sphinx, after the encounter with the motorcycle thieves on the night of the burglary.

That event was now many days old, yet no rain had fallen in the meantime, and here and there the crack of the Sphinx's tires was faintly visible in the dried mud—to anyone who had unusually good eyes.

"If they've got a Scotland Yard sharp down here now," reflected Billy, "and he goes over the ground, it's just possible he might see what that fool inspector at Stanhope never found. That there were two motorcycles, and not one, at the place where Jack the Climber got ditched. If they were to track up the Sphinx now, I would be mighty awkward. They'd soon connect her with Almee and me. But I guess it's an outside chance."

The slight impression of the mark, a little to the right of the path, caught his eye. It had passed over a soft mole hill, and was clearly defined. Billy paused, and inspected it with a new interest. The fashion of his countenance changed; he went down on hands and knees, and looked very closely indeed.

"Snakes!" exclaimed Billy. He rose, and quartered the ground carefully for a considerable distance in either direction. The ground was too hard to show any continuous track. But mole hills were plentiful, and some way farther on he found another one, also showing the print of a tire.

"It's the same. And not the Sphinx's tire, by a mile!" said Billy, knitting his brow. "This one was also-studded."

With growing perplexity he made a close examination of the wheel and carefully discovered other tracks. There were a few footprints and, faint though they were, they bore some very marked characteristics.
